Pearl Slaying Suspect Killed

Militant allegedly involved in U.S. reporter's beheading

KARACHI, PAKISTAN | Paramilitary police killed a suspected top al Qaeda operative, wanted for alleged involvement in the kidnapping of Wall Street Journal reporter Daniel Pearl, during a four-hour shootout Sunday at a southern Pakistan house, the information minister said. At least two other men were arrested.

Amjad Hussain Farooqi was wanted for his alleged role in the kidnapping and beheading of Pearl in 2002 and two assassination attempts against President Gen. Pervez Musharraf in December 2003.

An intelligence official in Karachi identified the arrested men as Abdul Rehman and Yaqoob Farooqi. Other officials could not immediately confirm that information.

Amjad Hussain Farooqi was believed to have been an associate of Khalid Shaikh Mohammed, the reputed al Qaeda No. 3 captured in Pakistan last year.

Farooqi had been missing since Pearl was abducted in Karachi in January 2002.

Pearl was beheaded by his captors, who released a videotape of the killing. Four Islamic militants have been convicted of his kidnapping but seven other suspects — including those who allegedly slit his throat — remain at large.

In May, security officials identified Farooqi as an organizer, with Libyan al Qaeda suspect Abu Faraj al-Libbi, of two attempts to assassinate Musharraf last December by blowing up his motorcade. Farooqi is also suspected in the hijacking of an Indian airliner to Kandahar, Afghanistan, in 1999 that resulted in a hostages-for-prisoners exchange that freed militant Ahmed Omar Saeed Sheikh from an Indian prison. ## ENLARGEMENT

Music to Your Chest

Japanese women are clamoring to download a mobile-phone ring tone developed by counselor Hideto Tomabechi, who says the tune increases the breast size of users, a Japanese newspaper has reported. "I listened to the tune for a week expecting all the time that I was being duped," said Chieri Nakayama, 19. "But, incredibly, my 87-centimeter bust grew to 89 centimeters! It was awesome!" Tomabechi's

What Is 'They' Doing?

A Branson, Mo., man has put a face on the anonymous references people often make to "they" by changing his name to just that: "They," with no surname. "They" accomplish such great things. Somebody had to take responsibility," said the former Andrew Wilson, a 43-year-old inventor. "They call up and say, 'Is They there?'" he said of his friends. "Not only is he making a statement about his name, but he's messing with the entire English language," friend Craig Erickson said. (AP)

Jeanne Hits Storm-Ravaged Florida

Hurricane slams area still recovering from Frances, kills at least 5

HUTCHINSON ISLAND, FLA. | Jeanne, Florida's fourth hurricane in six weeks, piled on destruction in already ravaged areas Sunday, slicing across the state with howling wind that rocketed debris from earlier storms and torrents of rain that turned streets into rivers.

At least five people died in the storm, which was a cruel rerun for many still trying to recover from earlier hurricanes. Jeanne came ashore in the same area hit three weeks ago by Hurricane Frances and was headed for the Panhandle, where 70,000 homes and businesses remained without power because of Hurricane Ivan 10 days earlier.

The storm peeled the roofs off buildings, toppled light poles and flooded some bridges from the mainland to the Atlantic coast's barrier islands. More than 1.5 million

Officials Fear Flaws in Iraq Elections

WASHINGTON | The top U.S. military commander for Iraq said Sunday he expected flawed elections and much violence ahead of the voting scheduled for January.

Gen. John Abizaid, commander of U.S. troops in the Middle East, said the elections will be carried out. But he warned that voting may not be possible in parts of Iraq where the violence is too intense.

"I don't think we'll ever achieve perfection and when we look for perfection in a combat zone we're going to be sadly disappointed," he said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Also Sunday, Secretary of State Colin Powell said the insurgency in Iraq was becoming more violent as elections near.

"It's getting worse," he said on ABC's "This Week." "They are determined to disrupt the election. They do not want the Iraqi people to vote ... in a free, democratic election."

Powell said planning is under way for an Iraqi conference, possibly

No Debate Detail Too Small

Candidate forums may highlight Bush, Kerry's differing styles

WASHINGTON | This fall's presidential debates will pit George W. Bush's folksy manner and big-picture brand of policy-making against John Kerry's more cerebral outlook and nuanced world view.

Each is a proven debater who knows, only too well, what personal pitfalls to avoid: Bush must stifle the smirk, for instance, and Kerry must cut short his rhetorical rambling.

They'll be under careful scrutiny in the first of the three debates, scheduled for Thursday in Florida. In the past, 30 million to 40 million people have tuned in. Almost one-third say the debates will be a deciding factor in their vote on Nov. 2.

TALKING POINTS: Democratic candidate Sen. John Kerry, left, and President Bush will bring different strengths to their debates, the first of which is Thursday.

A high school and college debate champ with two decades of Senate repartee under his belt, Kerry knows intimately the details of policy-making and how to argue any side of an issue.

The president, by contrast, is rarely accused of offering too much information. He is known to be "on message," often repeating a few set points over and over.

Viewers will tune in as much to get a feel for the candidates' personas as for their policies. Everything from their hand gestures and mannerisms to their physical appearances will be open to judgment.

All of these details are perceived to feed into voters' decisions about whether they can relate to candidates as well as trust them.

Iraqi Commander Arrested

U.S.: National Guard general tied to insurgents

BAGHDAD | Two car bombs wounded American and Iraqi troops west of the capital Sunday and a few hours later the U.S. military announced the arrest of a senior Iraqi National Guard commander on suspicion of ties to insurgents, underscoring the challenges to building a strong Iraq security service capable of restoring stability.

The two attackers who died in the twin blasts tried to ram their cars into a National Guard base in Kharma, a town on the outskirts of the insurgent stronghold of Fallujah, a U.S. military official said on condition of anonymity.

The number of U.S. and Iraqi casualties was not immediately clear, but a statement from the U.S. Marines said there were no serious injuries among American troops.

The National Guard is the centerpiece of U.S. plans to turn over security responsibilities after elections slated for January. Guardsmen have been targeted repeatedly by insurgents who are trying to undermine Iraq's interim government and drive out the U.S.-led coalition.

But the threat may not only come from outside the force. Guard Brig. Gen. Talib al-Lahibi, who previously served as an infantry officer in Saddam Hussein's army, was detained Thursday in the province of Diyala, northeast of Baghdad, a U.S. military statement announced.

The statement provided no details, but said he was suspected of having links to militants who have been attacking coalition and Iraqi forces for 17 months. Al-Lahibi was the acting head of the Iraqi National Guard for Diyala province, said Maj. Neal O'Brien, spokesman for the U.S. Army's 1st Infantry Division.

In other violence Sunday, U.S. troops and insurgents traded fire in Ramadi, west of Baghdad, resulting in at least three people being killed and four wounded, witnesses and hospital officials said.

- A month of U.S. airstrikes on rebel-held Fallujah has killed more than 100 suspected insurgents, taking a heavy toll on the terror network of Jordanian Abu Musab al-Zarqawi, senior U.S. military officials said on Sunday.

for hostage Kenneth Bigley, a British civil engineer kidnapped with two Americans who were later beheaded. Bigley's brother, Paul, said Sunday he was told the captive was still alive.

An official inspects the bombed-out shell of Khalil's SUV in Damascus on Sunday. Witnesses said he was putting the vehicle in reverse when it exploded.

Hamas Official Killed in Damascus; Israel Blamed

Syrian official calls attack a 'cowardly action'

DAMASCUS, SYRIA | In a hit claimed by Israeli security officials, a senior Hamas operative was killed in a car bombing Sunday outside his house in Damascus, the first such killing of a leader of the Islamic militant group in Syria.

Izz Eldine Subhi Sheik Khalil, 42, died instantly in the blast. Witnesses said he was speaking on his mobile phone as he put his white SUV in reverse before it exploded.

Security officials in Jerusalem, speaking anonymously, acknowledged involvement, though the government issued no statement. It had been warning for weeks that members of the group would not be safe in Syria.

Ahmad Haj Ali, an adviser to the Syrian information minister, described the assassination as a "terrorist and cowardly action."

Israel's ability to infiltrate the Hamas leadership in Damascus will likely further rattle the group after Israel killed Hamas founder Sheik Ahmed Yassin and his successor as Gaza leader, Abdel Aziz Rantisi, in missile strikes this year.

A Hamas statement published on the group's Web site said Israel "has opened a new door for the struggle by transferring the battle outside the land of Palestine," hinting it might expand operations against the Jewish state to its interests outside Israel.

But a Hamas spokesman in Lebanon, Osama Hamdan, denied any decisions have been made.

Bahamians Cope With Flooding in Storm's Aftermath

FREEPORT, BAHAMAS | Neighborhoods with roofless houses were swamped under six feet of floodwaters Sunday, the day after Hurricane Jeanne battered the islands.

Freeport, the second largest city in the Bahamas island chain, was without electricity and water.

The city's airport reopened Sunday but only to emergency flights, officials said.

Jeanne's eye made a direct hit on Abaco on Saturday, with its 115-mph winds ripping off roofs and bringing violent storm surges to the low-lying island of about 10,000.

There were no reports of deaths or serious injuries in the Bahamas, but the storm has been blamed for more than 1,500 deaths in Haiti, five in Florida, 24 in Dominican Republic and seven in Puerto Rico. (AP)

Greek Plane Bound For U.S. Threatened

Aircraft is diverted to London after paper receives bomb threat

LONDON | A bomb threat that mentioned Iraq forced a New York-bound Greek airliner to make an emergency landing Sunday at London's Stansted Airport escorted by military jets, authorities said.

An airport spokeswoman said an Athens newspaper had received a phone call saying there was a bomb on board the Olympic Airlines plane.

"Flight 411 Olympic for America has a bomb for Iraq," a caller to the Ethnos daily said, according to a tape the newspaper made available to journalists. In a second call, a voice that sounded like a different person said, "Are you listening? Flight 411 Olympic for America, bomb. America will see."

Authorities immediately notified the pilot of the call, and he asked for a military escort. Britain's Royal Air Force scrambled planes to assist the Airbus A340 airliner, the Ministry of Defense said.

The plane, headed from Athens to New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport, landed safely at Stansted, north of London, an airport spokeswoman said.

Essex police said teams were removing all baggage from the plane in order to search it.

Memories Etched in Stone

Memorial for sniper victims scheduled for dedication this week

WHEATON, MD. | At one time, the loose circle of upright stones watched over by tall trees and overlooking a pond glazed with aquatic plants was informally called Stonehenge for its loose likeness to the prehistoric original.

But this week, the spot in a Montgomery County botanical park will get a new name — Reflection Terrace. Already the names of the 10 people killed in the Washington-area sniper shootings have been etched into one of the upright stones. Another stone's message urges people to pause at the spot.

Relatives of those killed in the 2002 sniper shootings will gather Friday at the memorial for its official dedication, almost two years after James Martin was shot in a supermarket parking lot just a half mile away, the start of what would be three weeks of terror.

Rather than erect an elaborate memorial to those who died, county planners have adapted an existing spot, making only minor changes. The purpose was to create a place of tranquility and meditation, not a sober monument to the slayings.

"It's lovely, very serene," said Sonia Wills, mother of Conrad Johnson, a county bus driver shot Oct. 22, 2002. "It's not like a cemetery. It is somewhere I can go by myself and have some private moments."

Thirteen people were shot by snipers John Allen Muhammad and Lee Boyd Malvo between Oct. 2 and Oct. 22, 2002. Three survived, while ten were killed.

Muhammad has been sentenced to death already, while Malvo, who made a plea deal last week, received a life-in-prison term.

Q SINCE YOU ASKED

Q Does Metro plan to implement discounted bus-to-train transfers now that SmarTrip is in place on all the buses?

A Yes, possibly as early as next spring or summer, said Murray Bond, Metro's director of SmarTrip operations. The plan calls for a 50-cent fare discount both for transfers from bus to rail and rail to bus, he said. (There's currently a 90-cent discount for rail-to-Metrobus transfers only.)

Metro, he said, is awaiting the installation of SmarTrip fare boxes on 15 other local bus and commuter rail lines, and the completion of an electronic system that would collect SmarTrip data and divvy up each transit agency's earnings.

Metro Plans Early Start on Weekdays

WASHINGTON | Subway commuters might be able to get a jump start on their week Monday, as Metro planned to launch weekday rail service a half-hour earlier.

Service at end-of-the-line stations was scheduled to start at 5 a.m., with the exception of Shady Grove, on the Red Line, where riders were expected to see their first train at 4:57 a.m. Other stations were to open at least 10 minutes before that first train arrives, Metro said.

Riders would be charged peak fares from the station opening until 9:30 a.m. (EXPRESS)

BY THE NUMBERS: Metro expects the extra half-hour of service will add 1,700 new riders and, for the first nine months, cost the transit agency about $723,000. (EXPRESS)

Newer New Wave

Electro dance-rock makes a comeback for a new generation

CYCLES | New wave is new again. After years of grunge, rap-rock, nu-metal and garage rock, many category-defying, dance-leaning rock bands are breaking through at radio and being heard on dance-floors.

"The fifth-generation Pearl Jam knockoff and the sappy rap-metal stuff is dying, it's gasping — people are tired of it," Scissor Sisters frontman Jake Shears said.

Now, numerous genre-blurring acts — including Scissor Sisters, Franz Ferdinand, the Killers, !!! (Chk chk chk), UNKLE, Interpol, the Prodigy and the Faint — are garnering major-market radio attention and club play, and some are generating healthy sales.

Also figuring into the current mix are Duran Duran and Depeche Mode — two acts from the '80s that greatly influenced today's dance-rock bands. Epic is releasing the re-formed Duran Duran's new album, "Astronaut," Oct. 12, while Reprise will issue a Depeche Mode remix project, "Remixes 81-04," Oct. 26.

Richard Morel, who records as Morel, said today's music is appealing to those who were listening to bands like New Order and Duran Duran in the '80s, as well as to a much younger generation.

In both cases, Morel believes people are responding to a certain "swagger and distortion" inherent in the music of today's acts.

Morel's second album for Yoshitoshi Recordings, "Lucky Strike," draws inspiration from the glam-rock side of David Bowie and T. Rex, as well as New Order's synth-pop sensibility.

DJ/producer Jason Nevins has been championing a dance-rock hybrid for nearly two years. His remixes — for Madonna, Duran Duran, Nelly, Aerosmith and others — are steeped in rock elements. In fact, his "bootleg remix" of Nelly's "Work It" referenced AC/DC's "Back in Black."

Franz Ferdinand's lead vocalist/guitarist Alexander Kapranos said that his band has always eschewed the rigidity of musical genres.

"We'd go to a club and dance to house music or electro or whatever," he offered. "Then, we'd go to see a band and come back [home] and listen to our own records. Why can't we take all these influences and combine them to make something we enjoy?"

Apparently, others were wondering the same thing.

"In the '60s, '70s and '80s, rock music had a strong dance element," said the Killers' Brandon Flowers. "Then, in the '90s, it got too aggressive and macho for its own good."

"It must have something to do with the political charge that's in the air," said Jacob Thiele, keyboardist for the Faint. "There's a shift, and people just want music to be more upbeat and fun again."

'DEAR MR. HINTON': Susan Eloise was most comfortable writing in a male voice.

Still Outside

The troubled-teen literature queen has a new book for adults

GROWING UP | Don't ask why she let Johnny die.

S.E. Hinton has answered that question so many times since introducing the young tough in her teen classic, "The Outsiders," 37 years ago, what more can she say? "He died. OK?"

Ask her instead about the pirates. Or the vampire. Or the sex in her new book. Ask and she'll tell you what it means to break ground on the inside.

"Hawkes Harbor," released last week by Tor Books, is the best-selling author's sixth novel and the only one written for adults. Part high-seas adventure, part vampire horror, it depicts a young man grappling with danger and insanity while looking for peace. There are pirates and sex, gunrunning and smuggling and sailors who talk like sailors.

And, of course, there are outsiders.

She was a mere kid, a tomboy whose father had just died from a brain tumor, when word of mouth about "The Outsiders" quietly upended teen publishing.

Hinton started the book at age 15 in reaction to the social rivalries on the streets of Tulsa. No one else was writing about the "socs" and the "greasers," the haves and the have-nots.

Three other teen novels, "Tex," "Rumble Fish," and "That Was Then, This Is Now" likewise led to movies.

Hinton is proud of her teen novels and hates that she can't respond to the fan mail. But she wanted "to remember how much fun it used to be writing" and do it without having to top anything. KELLY KURT (AP)

Writer's Words Under Fire

TAKING NOTES | Playwright Byrony Lavery has been accused of plagiarizing in her play about a serial killer and his psychiatrist. Psychiatrist Dr. Dorothy Otnow Lewis and writer Malcolm Gladwell said they had found at least 12 instances of plagiarism in "Frozen," which earned a Tony nomination for best play this year. Biographical and thematic details had also been taken from a New Yorker profile Gladwell wrote about Lewis in 1997 and from Lewis' 1998 book "Guilty by Reason of Insanity," the two charged. One passage in Gladwell's article, quoting Lewis, is included almost verbatim in Lavery's play. It reads, in part:

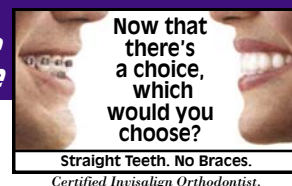

"I just don't believe people are born evil. To my mind that is mindless. Forensic psychiatrists tend to buy into the notion of evil. I felt that's no explanation." Lewis has asked for a public announcement of the alleged plagiarism, credit in advertisements for the play and a monetary settlement. Chris Boneau, a spokesman for MCC Theater, told the Times that Lavery was not available for comment. (AP)

Kerry's Finger on the Button

A new game rips controversy from headlines

VIDEO GAMES | An upcoming video game lets players re-enact the Swift boat mission in Vietnam that won Sen. John Kerry, the Democratic presidential candidate, a Silver Star award for battlefield heroism.

The first-person shooter "Kuma War" allows gamers to download and then relive actual battles, mainly from the current war in Iraq.

Beginning Sept. 30, the "John Kerry" mission will be available for download as an add-on pack for the game, made by Kuma Reality Games.

The Kerry mission is based on the Navy's records of the encounter on Feb. 28, 1969.

Playing as Lt. John Kerry, you lead three Swift boats into enemy fire on the banks of the Mekong Delta. Don't try to turn around and flee — the game is scripted, so you have no choice but to attack the enemy before they kill you.

Kerry campaign spokeswoman Allison Dobson said Kerry was unaware of the game and that he doesn't play video games.

EAT HOT LEAD: A digital Kerry in battle.

The Silver Star was awarded for Kerry's actions in pursuit of enemy forces while commander of Swift boat unit PCF-94.

Some veterans have challenged the Massachusetts senator's version of the circumstances surrounding the incident that led to the award, as well as his three Purple Heart medals.

Last week, Navy inspector general Vice Adm. R.A. Route concluded in a memo that procedures were followed properly in the approval of Kerry's awards. MATT SLAGLE (AP)

A Painful Musical Memorial

MUSIC | John Adams' "On the Transmigration of Souls" (Nonesuch) succeeds in doing what it was created to do. And because of that, it will have a limited life.

It was created, the composer has said, to offer listeners, and particularly New Yorkers, a "memory space," a container for their thoughts and emotions concerning the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks and their aftermath. It does those things, maybe too well.

With its use of taped sounds and voices, producing newsreel-like evocations of the day, the work is more aural documentary than true concert piece. Some of the taped words are like the repeated refrain in a very sad song. "I see water and buildings," a female voice is heard saying again and again. (The words were uttered by a flight attendant on American Airlines Flight 11.)

By all accounts, the premiere concerts, given by the New York Philharmonic (which commissioned the piece) were emotionally gripping events. But few orchestras will want to put their audiences through these heartbreaking, often brutal 25 minutes.

Perhaps as we get to the 10th anniversary, or the 25th, a handful of brave cities will see fit to offer a ceremonial performance.

In the meantime, this disc will be the lone access to this particular memory space. STEVE METCALF (THE HARTFORD COURANT)

The cabinet member gets the soft focus in a fluffy 'Biography'

PROFILES | The folks at the Biography Channel have decided to smarten up the franchise with hour-long profiles they are calling “Lives That Matter.”

Tonight's program, "Biography: Condoleezza Rice" (9 p.m.), does offer some fun home movies of the future National Security Adviser when she was a cute little tyke sitting on Santa's lap.

We learn that she was a focused and serious child and young adult, graduating from high school and college early, abandoning classical piano when she realized she wouldn't be the best and embarking on an academic career in Soviet studies that would have her advising presidents before she was 40 years old. We learn that she likes disco dancing, silly movies and buying shoes.

Rice was also National Security Adviser when the administration embarked on a controversial war with Iraq. What do people think of the administration's foreign policy developments? We don't hear. At a time when Rice's decisions, advice and even competence are at the center of a debate in a presidential campaign, this fluffy treatment is beyond absurd. KEVIN MCDONOUGH

? SINCE YOU ASKED

Q Can I save money by commuting to work by bicycle?

Yes. In fact, more employers around the country are offering facilities and incentives to encourage employees to come to work on their bikes.

Andy Clarke, the head of the League of American Bicyclists, notes that in addition to national "Bike to Work" week every May, more cities, employers and other organizations are making programs to encourage people to bike to work, such as providing showers and bike racks.

Kevin Shannon, executive director of the Association for Commuter Transportation, a non-profit that promotes alternatives to solo commuting, said promoting bike-to-work programs and other commuting choices is becoming a competitive edge for some employers as a way to attract and retain workers, as well as increasing productivity by keeping them healthy.

Bike-to-work programs are already going strong in cycle-friendly places like Portland, Ore.; Boulder, Colo., and Seattle. In recent years they've also been spotted in places like Houston, Minneapolis and Atlanta.

I think that's a good idea. But make sure this person won't tell anyone. A better idea might be to just call the school, tell them your situation and ask what you should do. They might suggest you just offer up a reference as decision-making time comes close.

Teen Mover | Youth Minister

GINNY DAUSES, 26

JOB: Director of youth ministry at St. Francis of Assisi, a Roman Catholic church in Derwood, Md.

SALARY: $25,000 to $35,000

EDUCATION: Bachelor's in theology from Franciscan University of Steubenville, Ohio

WHAT SHE DOES: Dauses coordinates retreats and programs designed to teach high schoolers about their faith through activities attuned to short attention spans. The centerpiece of each week is a themed event on Sunday, which can draw from 70 to 150 teens, depending on "whether the Redskins are playing," she said. For "Lifestyles of the Hip and Holy" — complete with a Robin Leach-esque announcer and a red carpet — teen volunteers played saints in skits. It's not all fun and games, though: As an adviser to both teens and their parents, Dauses must address issues such as drunk driving, abstinence and abortion.

WOULD YOU WANT HER JOB?

Dauses' work schedule leaves precious little time for socializing with anyone over age 18. Friday nights are often spent sitting in the student section at high school football games, meeting and recruiting teens. "I was so nervous" at first, she said. "You feel like you're back in high school — 'am I dressed OK?'" And while teens can always reach Dauses via her cell phone, she's careful to reserve time for herself. "The average lifespan of a youth minister is 18 months," she said, "because they get burned out." (She's been at St. Francis for more than three years).

HOW YOU CAN GET HER JOB: Youth ministers need to be knowledgeable about the faith and its teachings, but they don't necessarily need to be formally taught. Shortly after getting a job, you'll need certification through the National Federation for Catholic Youth Ministry (nfcym.org).

Gibbs, Parcells ready to open new chapter in longtime rivalry

REDSKINS | When Joe Gibbs announced his return to the Washington Redskins, Bill Parcells sent a congratulatory fax.

"It said something like 'Does this mean we can't talk for the next five years?'" Gibbs said.

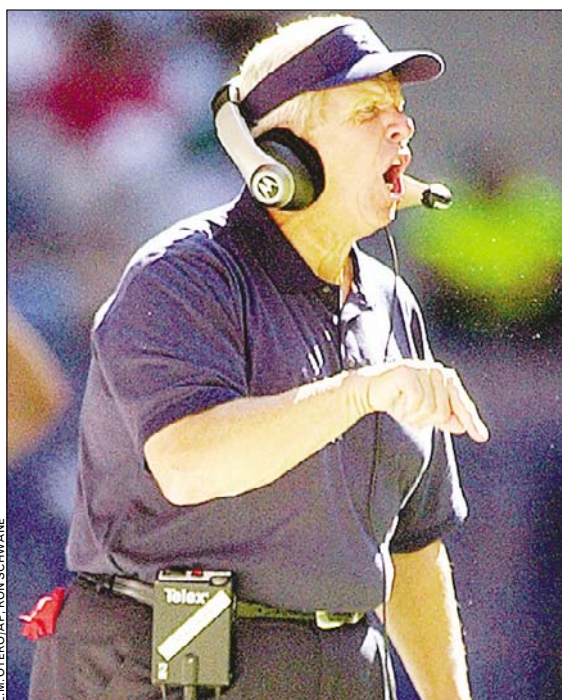

Gibbs didn't bother to send a reply. It was his way of giving the obvious answer.

"Yeah," Gibbs said, recalling his thoughts upon seeing the message. "We'll wind up hating each other again."

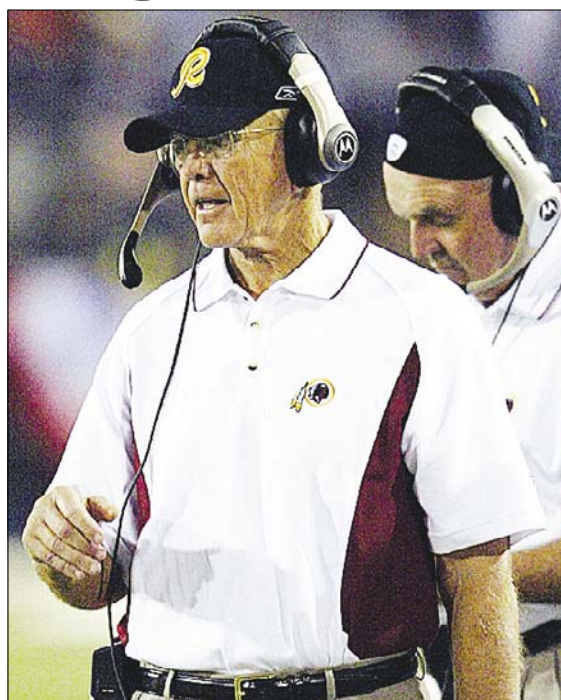

Yes, the old adversaries are back at it, a pair of 63-year-old workaholics who just couldn't leave well enough alone despite five Super Bowl titles between them. They have spent this week plotting for their first meeting in 14 years, when the Washington Redskins (1-1) host the Dallas Cowboys (1-1) on Monday night.

"If you're a fan, what you want to see is a big game, where a lot's on the line, and there's a lot of history behind it," Gibbs said. "And certainly this game has all that."

Gibbs isn't know for his hyperbole, but he's got this one pegged. Cowboys-Redskins alone usually make for a big game, but how can anyone not be excited about a new chapter in a coaching rivalry that produced classic chess matches between Gibbs' Redskins and Parcells' Giants from 1983-90?

Parcells, who ended his second

NFL retirement a year ago, is second among active coaches with 160 victories. Gibbs, who spent 11 seasons away in NASCAR until the Redskins lured him back in January, is fifth with 141.

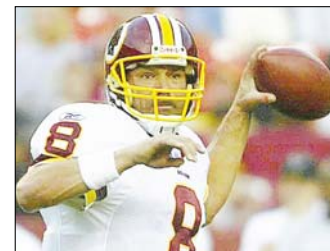

But when they went head-to-head two decades ago, Parcells usually prevailed, winning 11 of 17 games, including the last six. No wonder, when asked whether he was looking forward to facing his old foe, Gibbs quickly answered: "No."

"You don't want to go up against somebody that you consider is real good," Gibbs said.

Parcells responded by saying most of the games were close, and that he

FOOTBALL | Jamal Lewis up the middle. Jamal Lewis around the end. And, with the game on the line, Jamal Lewis rumbling toward the end zone.

After two subpar efforts, the Baltimore Ravens' game-breaker found his stride Sunday. He ran for 186 yards, including a 75-yard touchdown sprint that clinched a 23-9 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

Kyle Boller ran for a touchdown and threw for another, but had two fumbles that prevented the Ravens (2-1) from pulling away until Lewis' fourth-quarter run. (AP)

Colts Air it Out in Victory

Manning throws for 393 yards, 5 TDs to defeat Favre, Packers

FOOTBALL | Peyton Manning and Brett Favre lived up to their superstar reputations, throwing nine touchdown passes between them.

Still, it took a defensive play for the Indianapolis Colts (2-1) to finally clinch their 45-31 win over the Green Bay Packers on Sunday.

Manning threw for 393 yards and five first-half touchdowns. Favre threw for 358 yards and four TDs and the Packers rallied from an 18-point halftime deficit to within a touchdown.

But the play of the game was made by two defensive backs, Jason David and Nick Harper. They ended what could have been a game-tying drive by the Packers (1-2) with 6:21 left. David stripped Javon Walker after he caught Favre's pass just across midfield and Harper returned it to the Green Bay 36. That set up Edgerrin James' 1-yard touchdown run with 1:49 left.

Peyton Manning threw all five of his touchdowns in the first half on Sunday.

The wild start saw five touchdown passes in the first 11 minutes, three by Manning and two by Favre, a pace that would have added up to 175 points between them. Indianapolis did not have a running play in the first quarter.

"We knew we'd have to score some points against the Green Bay Packers," said Manning.

Favre and Manning, the two most durable quarterbacks in the NFL, had met just once before, a 26-24 Packers win in Green Bay four seasons ago. This was Favre's 192nd consecutive start, most in NFL history, and the 99th straight for Manning. DAVE GOLDBERG (AP)

Lions Are No Match For Eagles

FOOTBALL | After falling a game short of the Super Bowl the past three years, the Philadelphia Eagles seem to have the swagger and talent they've been missing.

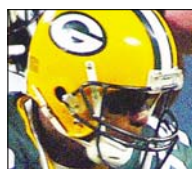

Donovan McNabb threw for 356 yards and two touchdowns and ran for a score. Terrell Owens caught six passes for 107 yards and a TD and Jevon Kearse had three sacks to lead Philadelphia to a 30-13 win over the Detroit Lions.

In a game between unbeaten teams, the Eagles made a resounding statement.

And Philadelphia is not satisfied with its first 3-0 start since 1993. "We haven't played our best — and that's exciting," McNabb said.

CHAMPIONSHIP FORM: Serena Williams erased a match point in the second set and came all the way back to beat U.S. Open champion Svetlana Kuznetsova 4-6, 7-5, 6-4 Sunday at the China Open for her first title in six months.

Red Sox Beat Up Yankees

Schilling claims 21st victory of the season in 11-4 rout of N.Y.

BASEBALL | Curt Schilling allowed one hit in seven innings and Boston battered Kevin Brown in his return from a broken hand, beating the New York Yankees 11-4 Sunday in another flareup-filled game between the rivals.

Boston's Pedro Astacio and New York's Brad Halsey were ejected in the eighth inning for throwing inside to batters. The benches and bullpens cleared after Halsey pitched high and tight to Dave Roberts on the first pitch of the bottom half, but the players were kept apart.

After losing Friday's opener, Boston won the final two games and took the season series for the first time since 1999, going 11-8 against the Yankees. The Red Sox (93-62) closed within 3 1/2 games of first-place New York (97-59) in the AL East but have just seven games left and likely will wind up with the AL wild-card berth — they led Anaheim by six games starting play Sunday.

Boston scored four runs in the first inning off Brown (10-5), who got just two outs, then made it 7-0 in the second against Esteban Loaiza, who allowed seven runs in 4 2/3 innings.

Schilling (21-6), who leads the major leagues in wins, struck out six and matched his season-high with four walks.

Astacio relieved to start the eighth and was ejected when he threw his second pitch behind Kenny Lofton. HOWARD ULMAN (AP)

In Brief

BASEBALL

Ichiro Within 6 of Sisler

Ichiro Suzuki moved within six of George Sisler's 84-year-old record of 257 hits in a season, and the Seattle Mariners beat Texas 9-0 Sunday to damage the Rangers' playoff hopes. With a come-from-behind victory Saturday night, the Rangers (86-69) had closed within two games of AL West-leading Oakland (88-66), which played later Sunday at Anaheim (86-68). (AP)

WNBA

Shock, Sparks Even Series

Cheryl Ford had 21 points and nine rebounds, and Deanna Nolan scored 18 points to lead the defending WNBA champion Detroit Shock past the New York Liberty 76-66 Sunday, evening their first-round WNBA playoff series at 1-1. Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Mwadi Mabika scored 22 points and Tamecka Dixon had 17 points, nine rebounds and five assists to lead the Los Angeles Sparks over the Sacramento Monarchs, 71-57, to their Western Conference series. (AP)

GOLF

Singh Breaks Money Record

Vijay Singh broke the PGA Tour single-year money record Tiger Woods set while winning three majors in 2000, holding off Stewart Cink to win the 84 Lumber Classic by one shot Sunday for his third consecutive victory. Singh's eighth championship this year pushed his money total to $9,455,566 in 26 events, surpassing Woods' $9,188,321. With Singh expecting to play four more times, he could become the first to win $10 million in one year. (AP)

O's Sweep Tigers for The Year

BASEBALL | Rodrigo Lopez put an appropriate finish on the Baltimore Orioles' season-long domination of the Detroit Tigers.

Lopez pitched a three-hitter for his second career shutout, and the Orioles completed their first season sweep of Detroit with a 5-0 victory Sunday.

Miguel Tejada homered and drove in three runs, and B.J. Surhoff also connected for the Orioles, who went 6-0 against the Tigers in 2004 — the first time in the 51 years that Baltimore has been in the AL that the Orioles went unbeaten against Detroit.

Rodrigo Lopez threw a three-hitter to defeat the Detroit Tigers on Sunday. GAIL BURTON/AP

"That's pretty impressive, no matter who you play," Baltimore manager Lee Mazzilli said.

Baltimore outscored the Tigers 22-12 in May, then beat the Tigers by a combined 15-5 margin in this weekend's sweep. (AP)

Newman Rolls to Victory

Gordon grabs points lead in chase for Nextel Cup

AUTO RACING | Ryan Newman left misfortune behind and ran away from the field, while four-time series champion Jeff Gordon took the NASCAR Nextel Cup points lead Sunday at Dover International Speedway.

But the victory in the MBNA America 400 did little to enhance the long-shot title hopes of Newman, 33rd a week earlier because of engine failure late in the race in New Hampshire. He's eighth in the standings with eight races remaining, trailing Gordon by 107 points.

Gordon finished third behind Mark Martin in the race and is one point ahead of Kurt Busch, who finished fifth Sunday and lost the points lead when he was passed by Dale Jarrett with six laps to go.

New Hampshire winner Busch came to The Monster Mile tied for the series lead with Dale Earnhardt Jr., who fell to third in the title chase by finishing ninth. He's 18 points behind Gordon.

Although he was unable to make a large gain, Newman demonstrated the power of his Dodge by leading 325 of 400 laps. Newman, who started second, was ahead by a half-lap for much of the final quarter of the race with the margin reduced only because a caution flag bunched the field on the 327th lap.

Newman's victory in the $5.4 million event was his third at Dover, where he swept the races last year. He got his second victory this season and 11th of his career, beating Martin by 8.149 seconds on the high-banked concrete oval. DICK BRINSTER (AP)

UP IN SMOKE: Ryan Newman waves after his victory at the MBNA America 400 in Dover on Sunday. Despite the win, he has little chance of claiming the Nextel Cup.

O's Skipper: Swap Leagues With Expos

BASEBALL | Orioles manager Lee Mazzilli offered an interesting solution to the team's concern about losing revenue if the Montreal Expos move to Washington.

"Switch leagues," he said Sunday, suggesting that Baltimore join the National League and that the Washington team move to the American League.

"Milwaukee did it. It's something to think about," Mazzilli said. "There would be rivalries with the Phillies, Pirates, Giants. It's very intriguing."

Of course, that would mean the Orioles wouldn't play at home on a regular basis against the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, their two biggest draws.

An announcement on the fate of the Expos could come as early as this week.

Baltimore owner Peter Angelos is steadfastly against the team's move to Washington, saying both teams could not be competitive if located so close to each other.

DUAL OCCUPATIONS: Sean Dustman is both a Marine Corps medic and unofficial Iraq war correspondent through his Web log, or blog, titled "Doc in the Box."

Blog of War

Soldiers in Iraq offer an online alternative to mainstream reports

INTERNET | Spc. Colby Buzzell's squad was on a mission in Mosul when "this really skinny Iraqi kid comes running up to us with a f--- HAND GRENADE in his hand," Buzzell wrote on his war blog.

"Drop the f--- hand grenade! Drop it now!" We all started yelling. The little kid, still with this proud smile on his face that said, 'Look what I just found' just dropped the grenade on the ground, and walked over to my squad leader and said, 'Give me money!'"

The grenade didn't go off.

The squad leader told his men an Army division paid children for weapons or unexploded ordnance.

For Buzzell, it was grist for his online war diary, <http://cbftw.blogspot.com>. Before the counter dropped off the site, said Buzzell, he was getting 5,000 hits a day.

Buzzell and a handful of others write unvarnished war reports. Some have been shut down and Buzzell, an infantryman, was banned from missions for five days because of the blog and has stopped adding new narrative entries, he said.

For the folks back home, soldier blogs offer details of war that don't make it into most news dispatches: The smell of rotten milk lingering in a poor neighborhood. The shepherd boys standing at the foot of a guard tower yelling requests for toothbrushes and sweets. The giant camel spiders. The tedium of long walks to get anything from a shower to a meal. A burning oil refinery a hundred miles away blocking the sun. A terrifying night raid and armed enemies dressed in black.

The blogs offer more than war stories; they offer images from Iraq not seen elsewhere, such as a sign on a truck, presumably driven by National Guardsmen: "Two week-ends a month, my a--!"

"This was where the real news that mattered to me was coming from, unlike what you saw through the regular media," said Sean Dustman, 32, a Navy corpsman who maintained a blog at <http://docinthebox.blogspot.com>. In April, Dustman wrote about flying over Baghdad. "At night there's hardly a flight that there's not someone shooting at you. They can't see the aircraft (hopefully)."

Online, a Wiki Situation

SHARING | Taran Rampersad didn't complain when he failed to find anything on his hometown in the online encyclopedia Wikipedia. He simply wrote his own entry for San Fernando, Trinidad and Tobago.

Wikipedia is a unique encyclopedia, because anybody can add, edit and even erase. Wikipedia is just one of a growing breed of Internet knowledge-sharing communities called Wikis.

There are Wiki cookbooks, a compendium of quotations and a repository on guitar players. College professors use Wikis to spur discussion. Software developers create online manuals. Small teams within businesses track projects, exchange ideas and list good places for lunch.

"Anyone can post to a Wiki in real time," said John Bobowicz, who created several for the Java programming community. "You can go to a Wiki, and you can feel like your voice is just as loud and your opinion is worth as much as everyone else. It levels the playing field."

Wikis, based on the Hawaiian word "wiki wiki" for "quick," were first launched in 1995.

John Bobowicz develops Wikis, online knowledge-sharing communities.

At its core, a Wiki is an empty room, devoid of furniture and decoration, said Sunir Shah, founder of an online community called Meatball. Visitors bring the personality and mission, turning the Wiki into a library, a party or a conference room.

Wikis are also described as online whiteboards, shared notebooks or group memory.

At Wikipedia, visitors can make changes without proving expertise. This month, it surpassed 1 million articles. ANICK JESDANUN (AP)

Want to live music history? The Delta is ready when you are

In the Mississippi Delta, life is never far from the blues — a challenge and an opportunity for those promoting tourism here.

Millions of people are drawn by nine casino resorts in Tunica County that pump more than $2 billion a year into the region's economy. But a short drive and world away lies the real Delta — stretching from just beyond the glitzy gambling halls all the way to the magnolia-shaded lanes of Natchez.

Here, amid some of the nation's richest soil and poorest people, are the sharecroppers' shacks, cotton fields, small towns and juke joints where the blues were born — music that slaves first sang about the hardships of life.

Now a new effort is underway to market this aspect of the Delta to tourists.

RATTY SHACK: The Shack Up Inn made a motel out of sharecropper huts.

People come to the Delta for authenticity, said Luther Brown, a member of the state's newly created blues commission and the Delta Blues Highway Association.

While you'd think there's money to be made from tourists eager to visit landmarks associated with blues legends like Robert Johnson and B.B. King, Sylvester Hoover hasn't had much luck with his "Trail of Blues Tour."

"It's slow," said Hoover, who charges $75 for a tour of local blues sites, including Johnson's grave. "I'm not sure if it's the price, or if I'm just not advertising so well."

In contrast, the Delta's toniest hotel, The Alluvian, has no trouble attracting guests willing to pay $175 to $295 a night.

Fred Hebert, a 68-year-old retiree from Mandeville, La., complained that the area could be made more tourist-friendly: "What would help is street signs or signs on the buildings. We spent all kinds of wasted time looking for them."

Buildings are renovated to house a bakery, restaurant, music club and museum dedicated to the history of blues and radio. Tours are being arranged, focusing on civil rights, the Civil War, cotton plantations, the blues, American Indians and local literature.

Clarksdale, Tennessee Williams' childhood home, is also home to the Delta Blues Museum and the Shack Up Inn, sharecropper shacks turned into motel rooms. "We're going to keep massaging this thing so we can get some of those 67,000 buses that show up in Memphis and Tunica every year,"

Bill Luckett, a local businessman, said. "We need to get those buses to spend an extra day in the Delta."

'The Daily Show'

BEN KARLIN, executive producer of "The Daily Show," was online Friday to discuss the daily grind of churning out fake news | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

Can you get the president on?

We've asked President George W. Bush to come on the show in every manner conceivable — official channels, when his surrogates have come on the show (Dan Bartlett, Ken Mehlman, Ed Gillespie, et al.), and we even published an official invitation in the New York Times. Nothing. Go figure.

Who is the funniest politician who's come on your show?

In terms of having a sense of humor and knowing how to tell a joke, Bob Dole is probably the funniest. Bob Kerrey and Joe Biden are probably the coolest, in terms of sensibility. And I'll say Rep. Henry Bonilla, from Texas, probably had the least clue of where the hell he was and what the hell he was doing on our show — even though that's not part of the question and it's gratuitous of me to volunteer it.

Is there any hope of a "Best of 'The Daily Show'" DVD? There are so many great comic moments lost to the ether.

We're trying. We just did a book, which was a ton of work, so the prospect of putting together a DVD that we are proud of was kind of daunting. Now we're working on it, though. Hopefully it will be out this spring.

I'm always surprised to see the guests you have and the people who are willing to be interviewed for your "reports." How do you get these people to allow you to interview them?

People, quite desperately, want to be on the TV.

Who's going to win the election? What kind of odds would you put down?

Anyone who is making hard and fast predictions right now doesn't know what the hell they are talking about. That said, Nader, in a landslide.

A 'Mediocre' Headline

IN YOUR WEEKEND edition, you ran the following headline when describing a concert featuring Alicia Keys, Cyndi Lauper and Boyz II Men: "In China, a Great Wall, Mediocre Concert." By what standard do you describe a concert as mediocre? The concert you described features some of the very best this country has to offer, musically speaking. I would estimate that it would sell out three straight shows in any of our largest cities. Even if Boyz II Men and Cyndi Lauper were scratched, the concert-goers would still be in for a rare experience. Alicia and the other performers mentioned are far above any known concept of "mediocrity" of which I'm aware. Further, I believe that (many) more people agree with me than with your newspaper on this issue.

CONFUSION But Only Samantha Can Date Women!

Americans, whose fundamental misunderstanding of the difference between "character" and "actor" can seemingly not be eradicated, were shocked Friday to learn that CYNTHIA NIXON is possibly in a relationship with a woman. Nixon just won an Emmy for her role as Miranda Hobbes, who dates men, in "Sex and the City." She has reportedly been dating a woman since January. "My private life is private," Nixon told the New York Daily News on Friday. "But at the same time, I have nothing to hide. So what I will say is that I am very happy." (EXPRESS)

Combined with medication, Jim Carrey is also effective against depression.

FINDINGS Jim Carrey More Effective Than Couples Therapy

Jim Carrey says his last movie is a good prescription for squabbling lovers. Carrey plays a man who has the painful memories of his girlfriend erased from his mind in "Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind." At a DVD release party for the film on Thursday, he promised that "couples who see this movie — and it's not gooey, it's not romanticized in anyway — will love each other after. ... 'They'll go, 'Awww, what the hell ... you're not so bad!' It supports love." (AP)

POST-'PASSION' Depressing Movies by Religious Men: It's a Trend

T.D. JAKES is a best-selling author of 29 books, a Grammy-winning gospel singer and a nationally renowned preacher. So naturally his next move was to direct a movie. Jakes' film, "Woman, Thou Art Loosed," opens Oct. 1. The film stars Kimberly Elise as Michelle Jordan, a victim of childhood abuse who winds up on death row. The fictional story intersperses scenes of sexual abuse, drug use and domestic violence with Jakes ministering to the condemned prisoner. (AP)

Please, Invade My Privacy

While most celebrity couples battle to keep their nuptial photos out of the papers, KEVIN COSTNER has either given up or thinks his glum wedding photos will give his career a boost. Pics of the 49-year-old Costner's Saturday wedding to CHRISTINE BAUMGARTNER, 30, were released to the press, making it altogether too easy to see how many gray hairs he has. The marriage is his second and her first. (EXPRESS)

This Must Break Some Law

MARTIN SHEEN did some real-life pol- iticking for a North Carolina con- gressional candidate who used to work on "The West Wing." Sheen attended fund-raisers Saturday for Beth Troutman. The Democrat, who worked for four years as assistant to the executive producer of "Wing," is trying to unseat Republican Robin Hayes. Sheen made an appearance in Kannapolis, where thousands of jobs were lost last year when a tex- tile plant shut down. (AP)

Dylan Wanted Fame on His Own Terms — Without Fans

BOB DYLAN went through a personal crisis in the late 1960s brought on by his huge fame, he said in a British newspaper inter- view published Sunday. Fears of a crazed fan attack- ing him or his fam- ily led him to keep several guns in his house, and com- pletely stifled his creative process. The weight of expectations also contributed, he said. He noted his distaste for the "spokesman of his generation" label. (AP)

Friday's Solution

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your fun-loving approach to even the most difficult of endeavors will endear you to those who rely on you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Concentrate on your roots; you'll realize that you have much that you've been thinking you've had to do without.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Not even your considerable sense of humor can save the day entirely — but that doesn't mean it's not worth it to try.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid judging someone a little harshly merely because your emotions are already nearing the boiling point.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your social energy is on the rise, and you may be in the mood to get out and about and visit as many friends and relatives as you can.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Your stamina will make the difference between calling it quits and staying the distance; you have more control over it than you think.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Increased tolerance is the key to success; do what you can to calm the waters and get along with as many people as you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Indecisiveness is not for you; be confident, forward-moving and eager to grapple any challenge that comes your way. You've got the stuff.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Trust your instincts, and explore your impulses freely. Take care, however, that you're not crossing the line and endangering others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may be asked to join the wrong team — but can you refuse outright? It may be necessary for you to walk a thin line for a while.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be far too sensitive for your own good. Hear what others have to say in an objective, rational manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may be frustrated by your own lack of vision, but later on you'll realize that you are, indeed, simply going through a phase.

WHAT'S FOR DINNER?

Glad you asked.

Pork Tenderloin Diane

Serves: 4

5 Ingredients:

- 1 whole pork tenderloin (about 1 – 1 1/2 lbs.)
- 2 tsp. lemon pepper
- 1 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. Dijon-style mustard

30 Minutes:

Cut tenderloin crosswise into 8 pieces. Place each piece between 2 pieces of plastic wrap. Flatten slightly with heel of hand. Sprinkle surfaces of pork with lemon pepper. Heat 1 Tbsp. oil in heavy nonstick skillet; brown pork evenly, 3 - 4 minutes each side. (Internal temperature of pork should be 160° F.) Remove to serving platter, keep warm. Add next three ingredients. Cook, stirring with pan juices, until heated through. Pour sauce over medallions. Optional: Sprinkle with parsley if desired.

(Note: Oil is not included in 5 ingredients.)
